

Who am I within this world?

A black and white photograph of a tree branch against a bright sky, with the sun visible through the branches. The branch is dark and silhouetted against the lighter sky. The sun is positioned in the upper right quadrant, creating a bright glow and lens flare effect. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

„Mir-oh“

Video, 6:36 minutes

Oh Mürow.

States oscillate, balance, wobble, tilt fickleness

Search, fathom

„Lapping - inbetween“

Collaboration with Elisa Bosse
Series of 17 Paintings
2023

Overlapping
Above - Below
In between

Exploring the in-between and the frame: the inside and the outside and in front of and behind
Wall or fabric
The gap and the form

Playing
Pleasure in colors, in layers consistencies, associations

And touched by feeling, deciding, wanting together
- the overlap

Stacking, staggering, rearranging, reorganizing, thousands of possibilities, simultaneities
Analogies

A series of paintings that functions modularly and can be hung, leaned, laid in different ways depending on the space

„Trying export“

Video, 2023, 7:27 minutes

What am I made of? What influences me? What do I influence?

... trying to grasp
my identity.

A subjective excerpt from the big picture,
a snapshot of something fluid.

The attempt to grasp something, to describe something that is in flux and only applies now, no longer applies.

Contradictions, ironies of existence. The universal, the humane.

A video collage of excerpts that have been collecting over the years and come together to form a conglomerate of individual impressions.

It is about ambivalences, states, characteristics, physicalities, about questions of gender identity, about role models - about the simultaneity of facets of one's own identity.

Time is like sand that slips between your fingers
A mother watches her child playing in the playground Surrendered to timeless children's play ---- stretching time.
Filming, photographing, trying to document - isn't that an attempt to stop time?
Infinite transience?
The grain of the photo like sand...
Motherhood: Holding, expiring, changing Solidified wax, a silent moment on the way somewhere.

"Art is diary"

Video, 2020-2022, Super 8, 3:50 minutes

The video reflects different phases of my life. Starting with b/w scenes from the playground, showing details of children playing, impressions of the surroundings and me; continuing with scenes from my pregnancy, in which I show my own watercolors in combination with shots of my belly; continuing with shots of a poem. The video ends with sequences of watercolors and my feet walking through a landscape full of toys and stuffed animals.

A search for artworks and texts on the subject of pregnancy
In comparison to and combined with my own works (watercolors, drawings, sketches) that I made during my pregnancy.

Book cover, silkscreen

...the body of the pregnant woman is a site of political struggle. The body is a site of power and resistance. The body is a site of knowledge and ignorance. The body is a site of pleasure and pain. The body is a site of life and death. The body is a site of hope and despair. The body is a site of love and hate. The body is a site of everything.

"When I scrutinized the art-historical record, I was shocked to discover that there were almost no images of birth in Western art, at least not from a female point of view. I certainly understood why: this (iconographic) was not signified. The birth experience was not considered important subject matter, not even to women."

Statement

My work deals with fundamental philosophical questions of being: The subject in the world and its transience

...

What does the time I have in this world mean?

The footprints we leave behind.

I build on the basic human need to be understood and the ability to actually find oneself in the other - from my individual subjectivity to general humanness.

And underlying everything: the urge to decode oneself, the enigma of one's own present.

Ambivalences
contradictions
inner conflicts
expectations, obligations, role models, gender questions
Facets of identity - simultaneities.
Metaphors, images:
Ironies of existence of being human

An - My illustration of common humanness.

What does it mean to be human - ?

Having a body

having feelings

knowing nothing, always seeking striving.
